- Celebrate their heritage

Sikh Sanjog works with the whole community to:

- Promote community development and support responsible citizenship.
- Advance the knowledge and understanding of service providers about the needs of ethnic minority women and their families
- Inform and influence government policy and practice in order to address inequalities, improve services and challenge discrimination
- Celebrate the values and heritage from different faith traditions through education and multi-cultural events
- Challenge all forms of oppression and discrimination within and beyond the communities we serve.
- Create sustainable initiatives and opportunities for development

Chair's Report – Mary McKenna

Annual Report 2016/17

When the founding members established Sikh Sanjog, 27 years ago, they hoped to build a better world for their daughters and their families, creating opportunities and addressing inequities. Much progress has been made over the years in legislation and education, but sadly in the last year negative attitudes to migrants and the Brexit debate have rekindled racial tensions. Sadly Sikh women and young people, who are mostly second and third generation Scottish citizens, are reporting more open discrimination, marginalisation, and hostility as they go about their daily business. The need for Sikh Sanjog to empower women within their own community and to educate wider society about the Sikh culture and traditions, is greater than ever.

In 2106/17 Sikh Sanjog confronted unprecedented financial challenges and only by working together with staff, partners and stakeholders have we survived. Over recent years we have been funded from a range of sources; grants from the City of Edinburgh Council and the Scottish Government, successful bids to the Big Lottery and other trusts. All these funding sources are under pressure by October 2016 the Board were faced with a major funding crisis and had to actively prepare plans to prevent the closure of Sikh Sanjog.

The Board reviewed all costs, staffing, premises and our liabilities. In Phase 1 we consulted staff, informed stakeholders, reviewed all posts, reduced staff hours and some posts were made redundant.

We secured invaluable support from our local Councillor, MSP's, MP, and from members of the Scottish Parliament and had meetings with officials and government agencies to discuss our management plans. Our Social Enterprise Café, Punjabi Junction, has been part of our long term strategy to support the work of Sikh Sanjog and we are extremely grateful that the Scottish Government who identify some additional short term funding for this. Funding for core costs is extremely difficult we were fortunate in successfully being awarded two years funding from Comic Relief's new strand of Core Strength funding.

Our staff are our greatest resource and they rose to the challenges, adjusted their hours, and continued to run all programmes. We embarked on a programme to raise funds locally, from within the Sikh community, and by contacting Gurdwara across the UK. Some of these efforts proved worthwhile, particularly a fundraising event to celebrate Diwali. Through careful management, hard work and the support mentioned above Sikh Sanjog has survived.

These challenges have forced the Board and staff to re-evaluate our work and to agree our key priorities for the year ahead:

- Promote cultural awareness and challenge discrimination
- Inform and influence policy makers and mainstream service providers
- Produce data and statistics that can highlight areas of concern
- Work in partnership and build alliances with other organisations
- Build capacity for the future
- Be a catalyst for change.

We know the need for Sikh Sanjog is even more valid than previously and we are committed to playing our part in building a tolerant, respectful multi- cultural society.

Directors Report - Trishna Singh

2016 was a year of near crisis for Sikh Sanjog. Our name is unique and different it is a real attribute in today's funding scarcity the focus is on partnerships and links. 'Sanjog' is Punjabi for 'links' and it was those very strong links and the people with whom we created those links over the past 27 years that supported us to come through the worst of it.

We had significant support from our local Councillors and MSP's in particular Ben McPherson SNP, Kezia Dugdale former Leader of the Labour Party, Deidre Brock SNP MP and Marion Donaldson our local Labour councillor. Scottish Government stepped in with added financial support which provided a crucial lifeline in getting us through our most difficult period. There was an enormous amount of commitment from Board, staff, service users, our founder members and the local Community who rallied round and we raised over £3000 through a series of fundraising activities.

Retaining and celebrating our professional identity as the only Sikh Family Support Charity in Scotland. Ensuring that we are working within a human rights framework and improving professional learning opportunities for our staff all remain high on our agenda.

The ever changing political, economic, social, environmental and technological landscape that all Third Sector organisations face present both opportunity and challenge. As we head into our 28th year, we continue to improve the level of service we deliver, against a backdrop of continuing funding pressures. We recognise one of the best ways we can do this is through our positive approach to working in partnership with others to ensure that we are delivering effective, best value services.

Sikh Sanjog remains in a period of transition as we chart a course towards being the most relevant Sikh Family Support Charity in Scotland. We are a relatively small organisation but each year our contribution to articulate the views of our members, whilst being a trusted source of impartial information on the rights of the community is becoming an ever-growing aspect of our service.

During the year we have hosted and participated in many community events including Police Scotland's Hate Race Week campaign which was launched from Punjabi Junction. We delivered a Cultural Awareness Session on Sikhism for Scottish Government Race and Equality Network for 25 Civil Servants including the then newly appointed Director General of the service Mr Paul Johnstone.

There have been many highlights the two that stand out are; Our Invisible Women event at the Scottish Parliament where we launched our Pathways to Employment Report over 100 people attended. We have been filmed by students from Chapman University in Orange, California for The Sikhlens: Sikh Arts & Film Festival which will be screened in November 2017. The screening will serve as a wonderful opportunity for the global Sikh community to honour the Scottish Sikh Community in particular the work of Sikh Sanjog.

The report highlights the breadth of our work we have participated in Scottish Government and Edinburgh City Council consultations and seminars in order to ensure the 'voice of the 'invisible' is heard and they become 'visible'. We continue to create new and innovative ways to improve our performance and deliver an excellent service at all levels this report demonstrates the progress we have made to date on that journey.

I would like to thank our staff and board for all their efforts in contributing to our successes through the year.

Community Development Report- Sheila Thomson

This group was an extension of the existing Drop-In Service. We ran 7 sessions, with a total of 13 individuals attending, resulting in 48 participations. The group focused on how it feels to be confident and why. We linked this to attendees own skills and personal qualities then highlighted the relevance of this in relation to employment, training or volunteering opportunities. Some attendees have now gone on to volunteer.

Outings and Events: As well as groups the Community Development Team organise events and outings. The purpose is to give Sikh Sanjog service users an opportunity to try something different.

Summer Club: There were 7 sessions of summer club over the school holidays, with up to 10 young people attending.
